

BIRTHS AND THE COLLECTIVE PROVISION OF WELFARE: THE LONG VIEW, C.1550-2014

18 September 2014, 5pm

A free public lecture by Professor Simon Szreter

A lecture to expectant mothers, c.1945. Wellcome Library, London

The School of History's Health, Medicine and Society group are delighted to be hosting a free public lecture on the history of birth, in association with History & Policy.

Simon Szreter is Professor in History and Public Policy at the University of Cambridge. He has written extensively on the history of fertility, sexuality and birth, and as well as tracing the history of birth and welfare over the last c.500 years, this lecture will consider how this history can inform current policy and practice.

The lecture will take place in the Conference Auditorium 2, University of Leeds, at 5pm on Thursday 18 September, and is followed by a reception. Everyone is welcome.

Part of a two-day conference exploring the history of birth.
For more information, please visit: birth.leeds.ac.uk